

DESCRIPTION OF COURSE

Description

Topic: International Climate Change Diplomacy: Legal and Governance Implications for a Small Island Nation like Mauritius

Synopsis: The talk will provide an evolution and overview of international climate change policy development and its demand for domestic legal and governance structures. Growing concerns towards prevailing and future climatic threats and need for stringent environmental protections escalated the need and importance of international climate regimes. Compliance to international climate treaties demands domestic legal and governance structures to be established domestically. A review of how this task is being undertaken in Mauritius will be presented.
